ABSTRACT

Eighteen two-year junior and technical colleges, 35 four-year institutions, and 27 undergraduate/graduate institutions in Ohio were surveyed on the extent of bibliographic instruction in their libraries. Libraries are listed in this directory alphabetically by name of institution. Entries include address and information on enrollment, type of institution, and person to contact. Responses to each survey question for each library are indicated through the use of a number code assigned to each library. It is hoped that the directory will facilitate communication among libraries with instructional programs, assist other libraries in developing such programs, and aid librarians in their research for such projects. Directory of Library Instruction Programs in Ohio Academic Libraries

As bibliographic instruction becomes an established part of academic library service, more librarians are interested in exploring methods of starting, expanding, or improving programs. In 1976, the Bibliographic Instruction Project Team of the Academic Library Association of Ohio decided to conduct a survey on the extent of bibliographic instruction in academic libraries in the state and to produce a directory. No attempt was made to draw conclusions on the state of the art of bibliographic instruction in Ohio. It is hoped, rather, that the directory will facilitate communication among libraries with instructional programs, assist other libraries in developing such programs, and aid librarians in their research for such programs.

The Bibliographic Instruction team included in the directory those institutions who reported that they have an on-going program of bibliographic instruction as well as individualized reference service or informal instruction. Responses to the survey came from 18 two year junior and technical colleges, 35 four year institutions, and 27 undergraduate/graduate institutions. Each library was assigned a number which is used to identify specific types of instructional programs. The information following the name of each institution refers to the enrollment and type of institution.

The definitions used to describe terminology were:

Orientation: familiarizing patrons with the library's physical facilities and services

Instruction: teaching patrons the use of the library's resources

Orientation-Instruction: covering the whole range of activities from the most elementary tour to the most advanced bibliographic instruction

Program: covering all orientation-instruction activities

Persons interested in learning about specific programs reported in the directory are encouraged to contact the institutions directly. Also, a copy of the directory and the original survey forms have been deposited with Project LOEX, the Library Orientation Instruction Exchange, Center of Educational Resources, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197. LOEX will, on request, loan printed bibliographic instruction materials used by academic libraries and/or will share the names of institutions engaged in specific types of library instruction programs.

The Project Team wishes to thank The Findlay College Computer Center for programming and indexing responses.
